ART WORK BY THE AUTOTYPE COMPANY.

The Illustration of Books, the Copying in facsimile of Ancient Deeds, Charters, MSS., Papyri, etc., the Reproduction of Paintings, Drawings, Etchings, and Old Engravings, etc.

The Illustrations being printed on paper to bind with the Book, require no mounting, so that the disagreeable curling of ordinary mounted photographs is avoided, whilst the Autotypes are as permanent as pictures or engravings.

For small editions up to 500 copies, the process known as Sawyer's Collotype gives most admirable results, at a moderate cost; for larger editions, the Autogravure process yields almost any number of uniform impressions. This latter is a method of producing upon a Copper-plate a photograph which (unlike the Collotype) can be altered or amended by the skilful engraver. When completed the plate is faced with steel, and will yield in the Copper-plate press thousands of impressions of uniform excellence.

Amongst the works executed lately have been Wyon's Great Seals of England; Fasciculus of the Palæographical Society for 1888; Reproductions of Early Italian Drawings, in the Print-room of the British Museum (by order of the Trustees); Famous Monuments of Central India, for Sir Lepel Griffin, K.C.B.; Photographs of Bacteria for Dr. Crookshank, etc.

Specimens of the various processes may be seen at the AUTOTYPE FINE ART GALLERY, and full information, with prices and estimates, will be given on application to

NOW READY.

DALE AND ITS ABBEY,

A Short History and Guide.

By JOHN WARD.

Crown 8vo., cloth boards, 1s. 6d., per post, 1s. 8d. 94 pages. Toned paper. Illustrated from the Author's Pen-and-ink Sketches. (The large-paper edition sold out.)

This little work cannot fail to be of peculiar interest to all who take an interest in the history of the counties of Derbyshire and Notts, in that, not only does it give in compact form the peculiarly interesting history of the Abbey, and a full description of its present remains, but incidentally it works out the early history of several prominent mediæval families of these counties.
